ABOUT THE ARTIST

Salim Karimi (Gilan Province, 1946) is an Iranian artist who worked in a Kanaf weaving plant most of his life. His art practice was kept as a side entertainment until his retirement at the age of 63. As he began taking painting seriously, his works began to take their proper form. Karimi died from cancer in 2013, leaving behind a unique portfolio of original artwork; instinctively stroked paintings overgrown with natural elements. His works have been acquired by numerous collections.
